- 2014 El Museo Del Barrio, BroLab, Museum Starter Kit, Open with Care, New York, NY (Rocío Aranda-Alvarado, Curator)
- Museum Starter Kit: Open with Care at El Museo del Barrio on the Upper East Side. The exhibition revisits themes resonant in the museum's founding and re-imagines the galleries as an active space for conversations on art, community, and the role of a museum. BroLab presented a new configuration of Stack and Rack alongside benches and videos, premiering the edited video of Hybrid Dynamics from our January exhibition at Freight + Volume. Artist talks and related museum events will run over the course of the Museum Starter Kit.
- 2014 Collective Design Fair 2, BroLab, Interior Faire, Collective Conversation, New York, NY
- For the Collective Design Fair 2 and Collective Conversations, BroLab showcased a new series of modular furnishings that includes tables, stationary seating and bleachers. In keeping with BroLab's signature low cost production methods and modular engineering, Interior Fair mixed CNC'd particle board with 3D printed PLA plastic in realizing these flat-packing creations. With its minimal design and clean lines at the forefront, viewers and participants were able to find BroLab's pressure-fit ingenuity revealed in the details. Interior Fair served as a central area for conversation and all those interested in mixing ideas surrounding art and design.
- 2014 Freight + Volume, BroLab, Dead Lift, Solo Exhibition, New York, NY
- 2013 UNTITLED Art Fair, Special Projects, BroLab, Moses Transpo, Miami, FL (Omar Lopez-Chahoud, curator).
- 2013 Chicago Cultural Center, BroLab, Spontaneous Interventions Chicago, IL
- Opening May 24 and running through September 1 Spontaneous Interventions: Design Actions for the Common Good features 84 urban interventions initiated by architects, designers, planners, artists and everyday citizens that bring positive change to neighborhoods and cities. Chicago is the first destination of the installation, which served as the U.S. representation at the 13th International Architecture Exhibition at the Venice

Biennale (2012). The Chicago installation will recreate the lively exhibition design of pull-down banners, created by Brooklyn design studio Freecell and Berkeley-based communication design firm M-A-D. The contents of the exhibition have been updated to include more recent and more local projects. Among the 84 projects that will be presented, more than a dozen are from Chicago, including several that also appeared in Venice.

- 2012 NYC Department of Transportation's Urban Art Program Presents, BroLab, Summer Streets, New York, NY (commission)
- 2012 Mott Haven Public Library, BroLab, Piazza Gratissima, Bronx, NY
 - BroLab revitalized a small under-utilized space in front of the Mott Haven Public Library in the Bronx seemed ripe for improvement. They sought permission from the library and city officials to develop a design intervention and met with locals to hear what the neighborhood needed. Armed with $5,180 raised on Kickstarter, the artists created Piazza Gratissima, a multipurpose "free plaza" that amplifies the library's position as a public common. Like their previous collaborations, Piazza Gratissima reinforces their desire to connect art to the live activities of both making and engagement.

COMMISSIONS

- 2016 Jamaica Center for Arts and Learning, Jamaica Center BID, Adam Brent, Through Peaks and Valleys, Queens, NY (w/ catalogue)
- Jamaica Flux is a large-scale exhibition of research-driven, site-specific art installed in everyday locations along Jamaica Avenue. The nineteen commissioned artists and groups include: hannes bend, Adam Brent, Aurora De Armendi, Ayana Evans, Nicholas Fraser, Samantha Holmes, Anna Lise Jensen, Sue Jeong Ka, Kakyoung Lee, Rejin Leys, Shervone Neckles, Jeffrey Allen Price, Dominique Sindyiganza, Stan Squirewell, Thiago Szmrecsanyi, Ed Woodham, and three artist collectives; Ellie Irons and Dan Phiffer, John H. Locke and Joaquin Reyes, and Lily & Honglei.
- 2015 Artscape (Anchor Project), BroLab, Misty Mountain Royals, Baltimore, MD
- BroLab was commissioned to create a temporary public installation as part of Artscape 2015 in Baltimore, MD. Placed within a 150-foot span of Mount Royal Avenue median Misty Mountain Royals consisted of several large-scale forms customized to the terrain of Mount Royal's landscape. Each form was built using a triangular system of aluminum poles, key clamps, and brightly colored vinyl mesh accompanied by adjacent plumes of high-pressure mist. The general public was encouraged to interact with the mist and sit atop the concrete slabs upon which the larger forms are anchored. A dramatic array of color, form, and movement, Misty Mountain Royals remixes the notion of the everyday crossing as both a place of destination and passage - a social nexus to cool off audiences in the midst of summertime.
- 2013 Bronx Museum, Quarter Horse, (BronxLab Lobby Design and Installation) Bronx, NY
- Conceived as a test site for contemporary culture, BRONX LAB encourages active participation and dialogue about topics of importance to the Bronx community. A collaborative effort of curators and educators, BRONX LAB is structured to promote digital learning and the dissemination of new media work. For its inaugural installation BRONX LAB commissioned a site-specific environment by the artist collective BroLab. A hybrid of design and sculptural work, Quarter Horse features a set of modular tables and media stations that can be arranged in multiple configurations. Each unit is a combination of minimal sculptural forms, all edged with a range of bright surface colors. Developed to complement a variety of BRONX LAB events and programming, Quarter Horse is a platform for cultural education and social engagement. The BRONX LAB interactive hub is made possible by a generous grant from Deutsche Bank.

2012 NYC Department of Transportation's Urban Art Program Presents, Summer Streets, BroLab, New York, NY

2014 Freight + Volume, Hybrid Dynamics, Panel Discussion, New York, NY

- Discussion panel featuring Tim Rollins as moderator, with members of KOS, William Powhida, and BroLab (Ryan Roa and Adam Brent). Organized for BroLab's solo exhibition, Dead Lift, this conversation is part of the ongoing panel discussions associated with the malleable installation, Moses Transpo, which first premiered at Untitled, Miami Beach in 2013. This panel will focus on themes surrounding models of sustainable collaboration, the art of community engagement and the dynamic design found in socially engaged art.

2014 Social Adjacencies, Mattatuck Museum, Waterbury, CT

- This panel discussion examines the present mix of art as social practice and the commercial art world. Peering into what is quickly becoming a staple of visible artists and art collectives, this discussion will sift through the varying hierarchies of work by artists that have demonstrated a commitment to communities, identity, and urban renewal in their work. Social Adjacencies will look into all the factors behind the clear embrace and promotion of socially engaged work by the gallery, institution and museum.
